PROGRAMME PLANNING

Country and intercountry programmes and projects

ASSISTANCE TO HAITI

Note by the Administrator

1. The fourth country programme for Haiti, covering the period 1987-1989, was extended to December 1991, primarily because of political instability which is not conducive for policy-making.

2. Subsequent to the transition to democracy in 1990, the United Nations Development Programme initiated the programming process for the fifth country programme with the preparation of the advisory note. This process, however, was interrupted after the political events of September 1991.

3. As of this date, programme activities, including the preparation of the fifth cycle country programme, were put on hold. They are expected to be resumed upon the achievement of a political solution.

4. Contingent upon the resolution of the political crisis and pending the formulation and approval of the fifth country programme, the Administrator seeks the authorization of the Governing Council to approve assistance for new projects in Haiti on a case-by-case basis.
